

Cheesy pun tops all lies

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — The World Champion Liar of 1972, so dubbed Friday after submitting the most outlandish tale to the Burlington Liars' Club, is a Montana man who claimed a revolutionary process for making cheese.

"Among the valued things I lost in a fire was a plaque awarded me for working out a formula for making longhorn cheese out of shorthorn milk," Charles M. Hatch, of Miles City, Mont., lied.

His pun referred to the shorthorn breed of milking cattle and the packaged longhorn cheese.

Fishing for salmon in Lake Michigan is a new attraction for Great Lakes' sportsmen, and Fred F. Smith of Muskegon Heights, Mich., claimed he and his buddies used olives for bait.

"When they come up to spit out the pits we catch them with a butterfly net," he said, and was awarded honorable mention with four other out and out lies in the 43rd annual event.

"Last August pollution was so bad in Lake Winnebago that pike 15 to 20 inches ahrank to 10 to 15 inches," said Frank Adrian of Menasha, Wis. "The water was even bad from the tap at home. I changed the water for our goldfish, and I actually caught him holding his tail over his nose because he could not stand the smell."

Wisconsin's cold weather, usually bad enough so lies aren't needed to describe it, was the target in an entry from Ray Schreiber of Algoma, Wis.

"One night recently, when the furnace failed to kick in, it got so cold in the house that my teeth were chattering—and they were in a cup in the bathroom," Schreiber lied to the club.

A big league hitter who is so tough "the pitchers even walk him in batting practice" was described by A.W. Tolg of Chicago, and Julius Festner, of Prescott, Ariz., lied about New York tailors.

"They're having so much trouble with the middle buttonhole of their $500 suits wearing out too soon that they have decided to add an extra button hole," he said. "This will be found in the right hand coat pocket."

Bombing halts, talks to resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam's industrial heartland around Hanoi and Haiphong and Henry Kissinger's secret Paris peace talks will resume Jan. 8, the White House said today.

The order marks an end to the heaviest bombing of the war which began above the 20th parallel Dec. 18. The United States has acknowledged the loss of 27 aircraft and 93 airmen killed, captured or missing since it began.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President ordered suspension of bombing raids above the 20th parallel "as soon as it was clear serious negotiations could be resumed."

Kissinger's private negotiations with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and the head of North Vietnamese delegation in Paris, Xuan Thuy, will be resuming after a halt of nearly one month. The talks broke off Dec. 13 and Nixon began the heaviest bombing of the war on Dec. 18.

Warren said technical talks between experts from both sides will resume Jan. 2. These lower level talks have continued sporadically since Kissinger's sessions reached an impasse.

The White House spokesman refused to say whether Nixon's bombing-halt order already had taken effect. But indications were that it had—or that it would soon.

"The President has ordered that all bombing be discontinued above the 20th parallel as long as serious negotiations are underway," Warren said in his brief announcement.

Hanoi had insisted upon such a bombing halt before talks could resume. When asked whether Nixon had received a signal from Hanoi that the Communists were ready to alter their negotiating stance, Warren responded that he could not yet discuss the content of discussions with the other side.

But he referred to Kissinger's statement on Dec. 16 when the presidential adviser said he would remain in contact with Hanoi and that talks could resume when the other side was ready to meet for serious negotiations.

The White House stressed that the bombing halt applies only above the 20th parallel. This means that the Hanoi and Haiphong heartland will again be off limits to U.S. air attacks but lower portions of North Vietnam will still be subject to bombardment.

Kissinger, who has been vacationing on the West Coast, has been in daily telephone contact with the President and will return to Washington for "extensive conversations" with Nixon before heading for Paris, Warren said.

Heading the U.S. delegation to the technical talks which resume Tuesday will be Ambassador-at-large William Sullivan, Warren said.

The announcement at the hurriedly called White House news conference came as the President was at his Camp David retreat in the Maryland mountains, where he went Thursday and where he is expected to stay until after the New Year's holiday.

The President's decision to halt bombing raids above the 20th parallel came against a backdrop of criticism both at home and abroad.

Allies and communist countries alike had denounced the massive bombings and there was rising criticism from both Democratic and Republican congressmen and senators.

Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, who had been one of the supporters of Nixon's war efforts, said this week that Nixon "appears to have lost his senses" in resuming the bombing.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and one of the most powerful members of Congress, predicted that the House next year will for the first time approve legislation to force withdrawal from Indochina.

Other Democrats have said they will try to cut off funding for the war. House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., while not supporting the cutoff, said the move probably would come when Congress takes up the foreign-aid appropriation bill early in the sessions.

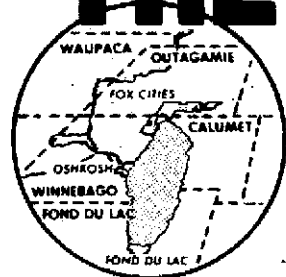

The stopgap appropriation for spending abroad runs out at the end of February.

The North Vietnamese have constantly accused the United States of bombing civilians targets. The Pentagon has denied the charges, but has said that some civilians close to military targets may have been injured.

The North Vietnamese also said the U.S. planes hit a POW camp near Hanoi and that some U.S. prisoners were injured. The U.S. denied the claim explicitly.

The White House refused to discuss the diplomatic steps which led to resumption of the Paris talks. The French government has openly tried to get negotiations going again.

93 survive jumbo jet crash

MIAMI (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines TriStar carrying 167 people crashed into the Everglades late Friday night, spilling men and women into the murky waters of the swamp. Authorities said more than half of those aboard survived the crash, the first fatal accident involving the new breed of jumbo jets.

The Coast Guard said 93 survivors were pulled from the wreckage, water and muck by rescuers laboring in darkness in the desolate and virtually inaccessible morass.

The search for the living and the dead continued past dawn today.

The big wide-bodied Lockheed L1011 was enroute from New York to Miami when it crashed just before midnight Friday, 17 miles northwest of Miami International Airport. The cause of the crash was not known at once, but an Eastern spokesman said there was no word from the pilot.

Helicopters and volunteer drivers of airboats — shallow craft that skim over the swamp — were pressed into the difficult rescue effort.

"It's the worst thing I've ever seen in my life," said Bill Hodges of Miami, a Coast Guard helicopter pilot. "Bodies were all over the place. Just two pieces of the plane were intact, the tail and a section of the cabin," Hodges said. "The rest of the plane was in a thousand pieces."

"Everywhere we tried to land there were bodies."

Frank Borman, the astronaut who is now an Eastern vice president, flew to the scene to help direct recovery work in the knee-deep water. He described the survivors as exceptionally calm as they waited for helicopter and boats to ferry them from the scene.

One passenger said a stewardess led the survivors in singing Christmas carols until the first rescue helicopter arrived, about 30 minutes after the crash.

Rescuers set up a command post at a nearby Miccosukee Indian village. The Indians who live in the alligator infested swamp helped in the rescue, but the tribal council refused to let them bring the injured or dead into the settlement. Police said the Indian leaders explained that their religious beliefs dictate that a building must be destroyed if someone dies in it.

Don Taggerty, spokesman for the Dade County Sheriff's office, said the Indians' decision in no way hampered the rescue effort.

Coast Guardsmen, police and volunteers worked through the night, slogging by foot through the muck, wending their way through slashing 5-foot sawgrass to reach the clusters of survivors and recover the dead. Flashlights and calls of distress were the only guide until portable floodlights were set in place.

As he lay on a stretcher at Miami's Palmetto Hospital, one survivor, 32-year-old Michael Laurie of Syosset, N.Y., recalled his ordeal: a crawl through the slimy waters, the screams and moans of frightened and injured.

"It was completely dark, cold and wet," he said. "Nothing left of the fuselage. We were in... a foot of water. I crawled as far as I could, a long way, 300 yards or so. I could hear people screaming. I yelled for them to get away from the plane."

Laurie said he was plucked to safety by a Coast Guard helicopter which

THE EVERGLADES, Fla. (AP) — The sun rose above the Everglades sawgrass today, burning away the mist from a gash of swamp where rescue workers toiled in muck to pull the dead and living from the shattered jumbo jet.

Helicopters fluttered down like giant grasshoppers, landing amid the bodies spilled into the sawgrass when the Eastern Airlines Lockheed L1011 jet smashed down with 167 persons aboard before midnight Friday. They came and went through the night.

When the helicopters took out the last of the seriously injured, airboats driven by aircraft propellers skimmed across the morass, bringing in new rescue crews and taking out the dead.

The Coast Guard said 93 persons survived the crash.

The tourist resorts of Florida's Gold Coast lay only 20 miles to the east, but here rescuers toiled in the wilderness of the alligator, deer and a few Miccosukee Indians.

"The plane is a mess," said Coast Guard Lt. Mike McCormack, who flew a rescue helicopter into the dark, confused scene.

"It is very dark. There are little pockets of people. Lots of dead bodies," he said.

Rescuers and rescued stumbled through the darkness, sometimes slogging through hip deep water and skin-slashing sawgrass five feet high.

One passenger said that shortly after the crash, the sounds of Christmas carols drifted through the night. Stewardess Pat Georgia of Miami led other survivors in the singing as they stood up to their knees in water and waited 30 minutes for the first helicopter to arrive.

Lying on a stretcher at Miami's Palmetto hospital, Michael Laurie, 32, of Syosset, N.Y., told of crawling in the water and listening to the screams of frightened and injured passengers aboard the flight that was bringing them from New York to Miami.

"It was completely dark, cold and wet," he said. "Nothing left of the fuselage. We were in... a foot of water. I crawled as far as I could, a long way, 300 yards or so. I could hear people screaming. I yelled for them to get away from the plane."

Laurie said he was rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter that "was unable to land because the ground was wet. They hovered and drug us up just like you see in movies."

Among the rescue workers were the Miccosukee Indians who inhabit the great swamp that covers millions of acres at Florida's tip.

A policeman said the Indians worked alongside the rescuers from the coastal cities, but they refused to allow bodies to be laid in their schoolhouse because their customs would have forced them to destroy the building if this were done.

Don Schneck, a crewman aboard a Coast Guard helicopter, said a few people who had come out in airboats took advantage of the darkness to rob the dead.

"I saw guys taking watches, but we were busy trying to rescue people. There was nothing we could do," he said.

Flu bug spreading

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Influenza this winter has struck at least 15 states, but only three areas apparently are having any prolonged bout with the bug, reports the Center for Disease Control.

The CDC said Friday that widespread outbreaks of the London flu, a new strain belonging to the same virus family as Hong Kong flu, have been reported in New York City, Baltimore and Santa Clara County south of San Francisco.

State public health officials also have reported isolated cases in Hawaii, Arizona, Colorado, Kansas, Texas, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Tennessee, Illinois, Washington and New Jersey.

According to the CDC, the outbreak in the Baltimore area appears to be declining, although emergency-room visits are 5 to 10 per cent higher than normal.

Authorities at the CDC say there is no clinical difference between the London flu and the Hong Kong variety that was widespread in the United States in 1968-69.

"You feel just as bad with one as you do with the other," a spokesman said.

Lindquists deny killing Johnny

CHICAGO (AP) — The parents of Johnny Lindquist pleaded innocent Friday to charges of murdering the 7-year-old in a beating while he was undergoing a trial replacement in their home.

William and Irene Lindquist, 31 and 28, entered the pleas on arraignment before Judge Joseph A. Power in the criminal division of Circuit Court. They were indicted Wednesday.

Judge Power assigned the trial to Judge Philip Romiti who will set the date.

The indictment accuses the parents of murder, conspiracy to commit murder and aggravated battery.

Johnny died Aug. 31 without regaining consciousness after his admission to a hospital July 28 with injuries that authorities said he suffered in a beating in his home.

The boy was a ward of the state since shortly after his birth. He had been living with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karvanek of Tigerton, Wis., but on March 28 was removed to the Lindquist home for a trial replacement with his natural parents.

State and church agencies had Johnny returned to his parents on the advice of a case worker who said the Lindquists would receive a larger welfare check with an extra child in their home. The Lindquists' four other children have been in the custody of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services since August. They were taken from Mrs. Lindquist Aug. 14 when 2-year-old Julia fell from a second story window of the Lindquist apartment.

The father had been arrested the preceding month when injuries to Johnny were discovered. Mrs. Lindquist was arrested Wednesday shortly after her indictment.

Judge Romiti set Jan. 8 for hearing pretrial motions and asked assignment of a Chicago Bar Association lawyer to defend Mrs. Lindquist.

Big 1st half decisive Terrors down Ships

Appleton West constructed a 21-point first-half lead, then weathered a determined Manitowoc comeback to score a 61-56 victory here Friday night in an inter-conference battle of basketball prestige.

The Fox Valley Association Terrors led for all but the first 2 minutes, 36 seconds as they scored their sixth consecutive home-court victory and boosted their all-games record to 7-2. The Ships, co-leaders of the Fox River Valley Conference, saw their winning streak axed at six games.

With two starters sidelined and another regular missing much of the second half with foul problems, West Coach Dick Emanuel had to rely heavily on reserves. And they came through with aggressive defensive play and vital offensive contributions. Starter Mike Brouillard missed the game because of illness, while starter Jack Snow sat out for the second straight time with a sprained ankle. Carl Joosten, the Terrors' leading scorer, played only 5:05 of the second half as he accumulated his fourth personal and eventually fouled out.

Six Terrors scored between eight and 14 points, as the balanced West attack proved too much for the Ships' 2-3 zone and forced them into a man-to-man. Scoring well from long range, guard Bill Garvey led West, with 14 points (including six baskets in 12 attempts). Joosten and Reid Holdorf each notched 11 points — with the latter enjoying a 9-for-9 night from the free throw line.

Arnie Fielkow, seeing his first extended action, contributed nine points, while Al Wachtendonk and Dave Thiel hit for eight apiece.

Bill Lindholm, 6-3 junior center, paced the Ships with 23 points. Mike Sullivan also reached double figures, with 12.

Manitowoc led only twice (2-0 and 3-2) before Wachtendonk hit from the left corner to put West ahead for keeps. Wachtendonk, Joosten and Garvey continued to hit the target while the Ships drew blanks. The Terrors hooped

Former Bear tackle killed in car accident

BARSTOW, Calif. (AP) — Roy "Link" Lyman, 74, former Chicago Bear tackle and a member of pro football's Hall of Fame, was killed Thursday night when the car he was driving crashed into the rear of a moving semi-truck and trailer.

Lyman, who blocked for Red Grange and other Chicago running backs for nine years with the Bears starting in 1926, was dead on arrival at Barstow Community Hospital. He was driving north toward Las Vegas, Nev., on Interstate Highway 15 when the accident occurred 12 miles south of Baker. The truck driver was uninjured.

East game off

The Appleton East-at-Antigo basketball game Friday night was postponed because of hazardous driving conditions.

10 straight points (for a 12-3 lead) and outfired Manty, 18 to 2, to roll up a 20-5 advantage early in the second period AHS-W's man-to-man forced the Ships into seven first-period turnovers. West continued to pour it on in the second period, hiking the lead at one juncture to 31-10. Lindholm's rebound shot cut the Manty deficit to 19 (31-12) at intermission time.

The Ships were a fired-up contingent at the outset of the second half, forcing six West turn-overs (in the first 2:30) and whipped in 12 unanswered points to shave the AHS-W margin to seven (31-24). Fielkow's 3-point play finally put West back on the board, and the Terrors tallied eight straight points to return to a 15-point spread (39-24) midway through the third quarter. With Joosten out of the game, Lindholm took charge under the boards and got the Ships back to within 10 (46-36) at quarter's end.

The Terrors maintained a safe (double figure) margin through most of the final period. With 1:05 to go, the West lead was 12 (59-47). The Ships outscored their hosts, 9-2, thereafter to account for the relatively small final difference.

West shot at a 42 per cent field goal accuracy rate (21 of 50), while the Ships finished at 37 per cent (20 of 54) after going only 4 four 26 in the first half.

Oscar returns, hits 21 Bucks crunch Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks welcomed Oscar Robertson back to the line-up Friday with a 114-101 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets.

Robertson, having missed two games with shoulder and neck pain, played 23 minutes and scored 21 points.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 39 points, and is averaging 37 a game in the last six outings.

He had 15 rebounds. Teammate Curtis Perry was busy in the Bucks' rebound pantry, pulling 25 off the shelf.

The decision kept division-leading Milwaukee four games ahead of Chicago, which hosts the Bucks tonight.

Houston battled the Bucks fiercely until the final quarter when Milwaukee's fast break stretched a four-point lead to 106-87.

Milwaukee trailed 55-49 at halftime, but surged to a 50-57 lead.

Houston tied it 61-61 before the Buck

Papermaker '5' shades Xavier

BY DAN VANDERPAS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KIMBERLY — Taking advantage of a 12-1 third quarter scoring advantage, the Kimberly Papermakers defeated Appleton Xavier, 45-42, in a non-league encounter played here Friday night.

The Hawks, displaying a deliberate offense during the first two periods, nursed a 24-22 lead at the intermission, before KHS pulled away in the third quarter.

Though it was the Papermakers' seventh victory in eight starts, veteran Coach Jack Wippich was far from pleased. "We made too many mental mistakes out there tonight," he said. They had a well-coached team and were ready for us.

"The game proved that we're performing as individuals instead of as a unit. I told them to stall it out when there were about 16 seconds left in the game and we were ahead, 45-40. But we hurried down and put the ball up. A think like that could have cost us the ballgame."

A pair of long jumpers by Lee Reider and baskets by Dave Albers and Chuck Ruys propelled KHS to an 8-0 lead before the game was three minutes old. But the Hawks battled back to deadlock the score on a Joe Fitzgerald jumper with 2:33 left.

Reider meshed a jumper from the circle to provide the hosts with a 10-8 advantage at the quarter's end.

Tim Sullivan connected with two buckets and three free throws, and Joe Schneider added a pair of baskets to spark Xavier to its 2-point lead at half-time.

The Fox Valley Association leaders reeled off 12 straight points in the third period, including a pair of short-range jump shots, by Ruys, a 6-5 junior-pivotman, to grab a 10-point (34-24) advantage.

With 1:50 left in the quarter, Sullivan hit a free throw to provide Xavier with its only point of the period. The Papermakers employed some slow-down tactics of its own for the rest of the period as Dave Reinke held the ball and challenged XHS during most of the minute and one-half remaining.

Thiel hits twice

Randy Thiel fired in two baskets and three of four free throws to keep KHS ahead during the final eight minutes. At the 1:10 juncture, the 6-2 senior forward connected with two straight free tosses to give Kimberly a 43-36 lead.

Ruys followed with a short layup, but pairs of free throws by Fitzgerald and Schneider sliced the lead to 45-40. With :02 remaining, Dave Mauthe was given credit for Xavier's final basket as a Kimberly player was called for goal tending.

Statistically, Kimberly made 16 field goals in 40 attempts for a 40 per cent rate of accuracy, while the Hawks meshed 15 of 43 for 34.9 per cent.

High scorers for the Papermakers were Thiel (12), Ruys (11) and Reider (10).

For the Hawks, who are now 6-3 overall, Sullivan counted 12.

Arnie's army joins Franco's

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Franco's Army and Arnie's Army have joined forces to back the Pittsburgh Steelers in Sunday's American Football Conference title game with Miami.

The word came in a telegram to the Steelers from golf pro Arnold Palmer, a native of the western Pennsylvania town of Latrobe.

"I am alerting my army to join ranks with Franco's and all of your other support forces for an all out assault on Miami Sunday," Palmer wired.

Palmer's patented late charges in golf tournaments inspired Arnie's Army. Steeler rookie Franco Harris earned his fan following with plays like his miraculous touchdown in the final seconds that beat Oakland last week.

North Carolina State raps West Virginia

BY KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ten tasty weekend treats have been whipped up in bowls from Florida to California for gridiron gourmets.

Post-season college football fanatics whetted their appetites Friday night when North Carolina State frosted No. 18 West Virginia, 49-13, in the Peach Bowl and Tampa edged Kent State 21-18 in the Tangerine Bowl.

But the piece de resistance of the holiday feast is the Rose Bowl, one of three New Year's Day classics involving six of the top 12 teams in The Associated Press pre-bowl poll.

Sophomore Stan Fritts set a Peach Bowl record with his three touchdowns, one from one yard out and two from the four. Quarterback Dave Buckley passed for two TDs, one to his twin brother, Don, and went over from the two-yard line for another. The 37-yard bomb to his brother in the first quarter wiped out a 7-6 West Virginia lead. The Mountaineers' only other scores were two field goals, also in the first period.

Kent State, the Mid-American conference champion, mounted a furious fourth-quarter attack after trailing 21-0 at the half but lost the Bowl battle when Herb Page missed two 3xtrapioint attempts and quarterback Greg Kokal failed on a twopoint run attempt.

Tampa quarterback Buddy Carter teamed with tight end Paul Orndorf for TD passes of 15 and 35 yards in the first quarter before Carter was relieved by Fred Solomon who capped an 89-yard drive with a two-yard run in the second quarter to end Tampa's scoring.

The national championship is at stake in Pasadena, Calif., when top-ranked Southern Cal puts its unbeaten record on the line against 9-1-0 Ohio State.

OMRO — Green Bay Premontre snuck past JFK Prep, 79-77 in overtime, to capture the Omro Holiday basketball tournament here Friday night.

North Fond du Lac dumped Omro, 86-59, for consolation honors as Tom Zorch netted 23 points. Mark Kratz hit 21 for Omro.

Premontre took a 78-77 lead with 45 seconds remaining in the extra session, as Mark Hogan connected on a floor shot. Dan Mc Vey converted a charity toss for the final margin with :13 showing. JFK's Mickey Crowe then missed a 30-footer which rolled around the rim at the buzzer.

Crowe had 33 points for scoring honors to lead JFK (8-1). Kevin Heuvelmans, Rick Peot, and Brian Duffy each scored 16 for Premontre, now 7-2.

Celts blow lead; Bulls win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How, you might ask, can a National Basketball Association team as strong as Boston's Atlantic Division leaders blow an 18-point lead and wind up losing the ball game by seven?

Simple, would be the reply of Celtic Coach Tommy Heinsohn, who watched his team fold up after intermission and lose to Chicago 106-99 on Friday.

"We didn't do anything in the second half," explained Heinsohn. "No defense, no running, no press, no going to the basket, nothing."

All the no-nos, plus 41 points by Bob Love added up to the Bulls' victory over the Celtics. Simple.

Elsewhere in the NBA Friday, New York chopped a full game off Boston's division lead by defeating Detroit 99-94, Buffalo stunned Baltimore 118-109, Milwaukee whacked Houston 114-101, Phoenix whipped Portland 106-99, Seattle defeated Cleveland 99-91 and Los Angeles ripped Kansas City-Omaha 121-92.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky slugged Dallas 131-104 and New York downed San Diego 114-104 in overtime.

New York overcame a virtual one-man show by Detroit's Bob Lanier to defeat the Pistons. Lanier threw in 38 points and grabbed 29 rebounds but he couldn't prevent the Knicks from becoming the first NBA team to reach 30 victories this season.

Walt Frazier led New York with 24 points, 12 of them in the fourth quarter including the jumper that put the Knicks ahead for good. It marked the 10th time in the last 19 games that New York has held an opponent to under 100 points.

St. Margaret Mary, St. Mary '5s' win

NEENAH — Host St. Margaret Mary Grade School and Menasha St. Mary posted semi-final victories in the St. Margaret Mary Athletic Association eighth grade holiday basketball tournament Friday night.

St. Margaret Mary posted a 41-18 triumph over Neenah Trinity Lutheran, while St. Mary bested Neenah St. Gabriel, 51-27.

The winners clash for the championship at 7:30 p.m. today. St. Gabriel and Trinity meet for third place at 6:30.

St. Margaret Mary outscored Trinity, 26-9, in the second half to post its victory. Mike Kneepkens hit 15 points for the winners.

St. Mary racked up a 28-13 last half edge in its conquest of St. Gabriel.

Kurt Koerner notched 16 points and Pete Stum and Todd Lesselyong each had 12 for the Zephyrs. Mike O'Meara collected 10 for the Jets.

timore apart with 33 points leading the Braves to their upset over the Bullets, leaders in the NBA's Central Division.

Fourteen of Smith's points came in the third quarter when Buffalo built a seven-point halftime advantage to a 92-71 bulge. The Braves shot 58 percent in the first period and rushed to a 34-22 lead with Smith contributing 13 points in that quarter.

Phoenix beat Portland for the 13th consecutive time, riding some hot third period shooting by Charlie Scott to the victory.

Scott bunched 14 of his gamehigh 29 points in the third quarter as the Suns wiped out an early Trail Blazer lead.

Wilt Chamberlain grabbed 26 rebounds while Los Angeles allstar backcourt combination of Jerry West and Gail Goodrich combined for 55 points to lead the Lakers' romp over Kansas City-Omaha.

West had 28 points and Goodrich 27 for the Lakers, who completely dominated the game.

Spencer Haywood poured in 31 points to lead Seattle past Cleveland.

The Cavaliers led by as many as nine points in the first half before Haywood's hot hand turned the game over to the Sonics. Austin Carr's 20 points led the losers.

Bruins rip Minnesota

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Bruins have reached first place in the National Hockey League's East Division after an uphill struggle they've been waging since October.

Thank you, Bobby Orr. The Bruins used goals by Orr and Mike Walton and some sensational goaltending by veteran Ed Johnston to shut out Minnesota 2-0 Friday night and move one point ahead of idle Montreal in the East race.

Elsewhere in the NHL Friday, Toronto shut out Pittsburgh 4-0, California ripped the New York Islanders 5-2, and Vancouver tied Philadelphia 4-4 in a brawl-filled game.

In the World Hockey Association, Houston trimmed New England 4-2, Cleveland dropped Quebec 5-3 and Los Angeles whipped Minnesota 5-2.

"We were 14 points behind at one time early last month," said Johnston, who blocked 37 shots for Boston's shutout. The Bruins have moved to the top by losing only once in the last 20 games. It is no coincidence that the hot streak started as soon as Orr returned to the lineup. The Bruins' super defenseman missed the first 14 games this season recovering from knee surgery.

"He's back in form," said Boston Coach Tom Johnson of Orr. "He claims we got going just prior to his return, but I think it came when he returned to the lineup."

Toronto goalie Ron Low kicked out 42 shots as the Maple Leafs blanked Pittsburgh. First period goals 19 seconds apart by Dave Keon and Paul Henderson gave the Leafs the quick lead and Darryl Sittler and Denis Dupere added second period scores for the Leafs.

Low took care of the Penguins with his airtight goaltending.

"It didn't make any difference where or how we shot," said Greg Polis of the Penguins. "That guy was in front of everything. We scored seven goals on him last month and tonight he couldn't do anything wrong."

California beat the Islanders in a match of division cellar dwellers.

The Seals, last in the West with only six victories this season, got in front fast on Joey Johnston's goal in the opening minute. The Islanders, who have won only four games all season, two of them against California, tied it on a goal by Billy Harris but the Seals took the lead for keeps on scores by Pete Laframboise and Marshall Johnston before the end of the period.

Vancouver rallied for the tie against Philadelphia on a pair of third period goals by Don Tannahill and Bobby Schmautz but it was a brawl that sent Flyer players into the stands that dominated the action.

The trouble started when a fan pulled Don Saleski's hair as the Flyer rookie battled with Barry Wilcox.

Warmer and wetter

This is the nation's precipitation and temperature outlook for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service. (AP Wirephoto map)

'April' showers to turn to snow

Cloudy, turning colder tonight with rain changing to snow. The low tonight and high Sunday will be in the upper 20s. Sunday will be cloudy, windy and colder with a chance of snow flurries.

Southwesterly winds at 10-18 m.p.h. tonight will become west-northwesterly at 10-20 m.p.h. on Sunday. Precipitation probabilities are 60 per cent for both tonight and Sunday.

The major storm system that was organizing over the east Rockies Friday has now consolidated into one large low pressure area over northwestern Iowa. The associated weather meant warmer temperatures in advance of the storm system with accompanying precipitation, first snow and then rain.

Weathermen say the temperatures will stay warm enough today to keep the precipitation rain, but as the storm moves north of Wisconsin late tonight, colder air should move in behind it and the rain will change to snow flurries.

The Wisconsin State Patrol this morning reported the entire Interstate system, from the west central area to Milwaukee and south to Illinois, was wet but not slippery. Rain or fog covered most of the state, except for the northeast, when all roads ranged from icy to icy in spots.

Roads in the northwestern part of the state varied from slushy to slippery and hazardous. Mist and rain added to the poor driving conditions. Motorists were urged to use caution and be alert to changing conditions.

In Appleton Friday, the high was 37 and the low 28. The barometric pressure was 29.85 and falling and the humidity 100 per cent. Dew point was 34 degrees. Winds were easterly at 4 to 10 m.p.h. There was .61 inch of precipitation before midnight and .11 up until a.m. today.

Sunset today at 4:23 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 7:29 a.m. Moonrise tomorrow at 4:12 a.m. New Moon on Jan. 4.

The planet Mars, which is following the moon tonight, is now moving into the constellation Scorpio. Mars appears among the stars in the head of the Scorpion tonight.

Courts

Two 18-year-old Green Bay men were fined $100 each after they were found guilty Friday on one count of theft by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Bruce F. Dettman and John D. Deffke pleaded guilty to siphoning gas from a truck at the rear of the Post Corporation building, 306 W. Washington St., about 2 a.m. Friday. The theft was reportedly witnessed by a police patrolman.

A Feb. 19 trial was set Thursday for Dennis Barth, 28, Quarry Road, Town of Grand Chute, who pleaded not guilty to one count each of shoplifting and disorderly conduct in an appearance before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Barth is charged with taking two pairs of men's slacks valued together at $22.95 Sunday afternoon from Penney's. The disorderly conduct charge followed his forcible arrest in the 200 block of W. Franklin Street a short time after the reported shoplifting incident.

Stephan F. Johnson, 35, 1817 N. Birchwood Ave., was fined $175 and ordered to attend traffic safety school after he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Judge Nick F. Schaefer Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Johnson was arrested by Appleton police in the 1300 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue the evening of Dec. 16.

Richard J. Kimball, 46, 824 W. Grove St., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, when he appeared Friday before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Kimball was arrested by Appleton police in the 1300 block of S. Oneida Street early Dec. 22. Schaefer continued the case to Jan. 5.

Paul Popke, 20, 1566 Collins St., Neenah, was fined $50 after he was found guilty on a charge of theft by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Popke pleaded guilty to taking two tires, valued together at $48, from the Matthews Tire & Auto Center, 2930 W. College Ave., on Dec. 20.

William J. VanderHeyden, 26, of 218 N. Rankin St., and Gerald J. Van Handel, 23, route 1, Kaukauna, were placed on probation to the court for one year each, after they pleaded guilty Friday to one count of marijuana possession.

The two appeared before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, where a finding of guilt was withheld. They were arrested in a van truck in the south alley behind the 500 block of W. College Avenue the evening of Oct. 26. Police found two pipes and two bags of marijuana in the van.

Vern R. Millizer, 18, 906 1/2 W. Wisconsin Ave., was charged with one count of theft and three counts of cashing worthless checks, when he appeared Friday before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Millizer is charged with taking about $200 from the Arco Service Station, 3225 W. College Ave., on Nov. 28, after he reportedly stole the key to the station from a friend who was working there.

The three worthless checks totaled $13 and were cashed Dec. 15 and 16 at Rosz' Shell Station, 1308 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Schaefer set bond at $1,500 and continued the matters to Tuesday.

Waupaca housing needs reassessed

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — The shelving of a resolution by the city council on Dec. 5, which would clear the way for the Waupaca County Housing Authority to apply for Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funds to construct a 40-unit housing complex for the elderly and 16 homes for low income families, has sparked a full review of the facts.

There has been public and private discussion in the council since Aug. 1, when Mayor Ray Roe broke a 4-4 tie vote to permit the Waupaca County Housing Authority to function within the city, empowering it to plan and develop low cost housing for the elderly and low income families.

The marginal vote permitted the county housing authority to identify three suitable locations for constructing low cost housing units for the elderly and 18 locations suitable for building homes for low income families. On Sept. 19, Roe appointed Ald. Waldemar Johnson, Ald. Marlyn Looker, and Paul Niles, member of the city plan commission as members of special committee to work with City Assessor Lonnie Sherman in selecting the sites.

The sites were chosen and forwarded to the county housing authority.

The city aldermen were informed in early summer, following a May survey, that Waupaca had the highest need for low cost housing in the county — the 40 for elderly and 16 for low income families.

The survey also showed that Clintonville needed 20 units for the elderly and 12 homes for low incomes families; Fremont, one low income home; Marion, 25 units for elderly and eight homes; Manawa, 15 units for the elderly and one home; New London 25 units for elderly and 7 homes; and Weyauwega 10 units for the elderly and three homes.

The county authority went to the eight local governments during December asking for the tax forfeiture resolution and accepting instead an annual payment on any building or home constructed with HUD funds. Six of the cities signed the resolution, with Waupaca and Weyauwega withholding approval.

The above agreement is the final step before the county housing authority makes its formal application to HUD for funds.

The authority met on Tuesday and upon learning of the city council's refusal to act on the resolution, decided that there was a lack of communication.

Pair held for 2 burglaries in Hilbert

CHILTON — Two Milwaukee men were apprehended in Appleton early this morning in connection with two burglaries in Hilbert.

Calumet County sheriff's officers investigated the two break-ins and notified Appleton police who arrested a 22-year-old man and a 32-year-old man in their auto at the corner of W. College Ave. and Linwood Street at 3:30 a.m.

The pair are held without bond in the Outagamie County jail. They are accused of having stolen property, including six shotguns and a television set.

Police said they also had burglary tools and two sawed-off shotguns in their car.

Calumet officers report that the Calumet Bottle Gas Company on Main Street was broken into and several guns, cash and a television set were missing. Entry to the building was gained by breaking a window in the front door, officers said. They added that the safe had been opened and some checks and records were reported missing.

The second break-in was at Stengal's Grocery, which is about a block from the gas firm. Entry was gained through a southwest door that was pried open, sheriff's officers said. Money was taken from the cash register.

Mrs. Sitter won't run for council seat

OSHKOSH — Mrs. Valeria Sitter, first woman to be elected to this city's common council, announced Friday she will not seek re-election to a third term in April.

She will retain her seat on the Winnebago County Board of Supervisors, however.

Mrs. Sitter said Friday that the two positions have left her little time for anything else, especially since reorganization of the county board reduced the number of its committees.

"It's been a hectic and grueling year for me," she declared, "and I can't foresee that 1973 will be any different if I run and am re-elected to the city council."

Mrs. Sitter said she has enjoyed her four years on the council, but "the two jobs have simply become more than I can handle both mentally and physically."

She said she plans to continue attending council meetings, however, every chance she gets.

Before the authority meets again on Jan. 23, it was decided to take the matter to local aldermen once more. If Waupaca doesn't act, the 40-units and 16 low income homes will be reallocated to other cities in the county.

"We have to submit our application in January," Melvin Pethke of Manawa said. "It would be too bad if the needy senior citizens and low income families of Waupaca were denied better housing at prices they can afford because we have not made our position clear."

Some of the points to be clarified, in the opinion of the Authority, are:

— That the survey of need did include the planned construction by Anderson Brothers of 30 approved units under the Federal Housing Authority on the old city hall site. Construction has not started on this complex, which has been in the planning stage since 1970.

— HUD projects would not cost the city anything and at the end of 40 years the building for the elderly would be turned over to the city.

— Persons renting from the authority would have a maximum assets limit of $15,000, compared with the FHA maximum asset limit of $3,500 to $5,000.

The senior citizens were advised of developments this week and those who have need of low cost housing urged to call their aldermen, asking for support of the authority. The matter is scheduled for the Jan. 16 council meeting.

One source which points up the need for local low cost housing, is the Department of Social Services.

"We have at present 23 single elderly citizens who are paying an average rental of $50.73 and have an average of $80 per month left for food, fuel, utilities and clothing," Robert Payette, director, said.

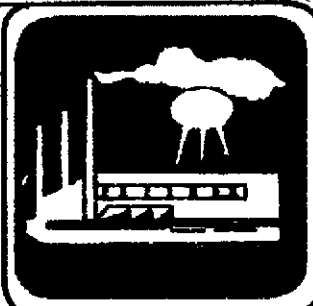

"There are three aged couples, who pay an average rent of $80 per month and for the two, they have $124 left over for everything else.

"In addition, we have 24 low income families, 96 persons, who pay an average rent of $74.79 per month," he concluded. "This leaves the head of the house with four persons to support a total of $181."

Manpower training freeze is criticized

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Nixon Administration came under fire from another Wisconsin official Friday, this time for an order that manpower training programs for the jobless be frozen through the end of January.

Wisconsin manpower director William R. Bechtel called the order "one of the cruelest and most arbitrary" in recent mandates from the Administration to cut federal spending.

Bechtel said state agencies received notice from federal officials Thursday that no new manpower training programs can be started. Existing projects can be extended for only 30 days and no new trainees may be enrolled.

The only exception to the order was the Work Incentive Program for welfare recipients. Bechtel said the order contained no hints on what would happen after Jan. 31.

Bechtel said funds had been appropriated for the programs, contracts had been signed and trainees and their potential employers had made commitments.

Apparently affected by the freeze, he said, are the Operation Mainstream program, the Neighborhood Youth Corps, the Manpower Development and Training Act, the Job (Jon) Opportunities in the Business Sector program, the Job Corps and the Concentrated Employment Programs in Milwaukee and Ashland.

"Congress created these programs to meet high priority needs in our society," Bechtel said. "I cannot believe Congress will stand by while the programs are strangled and the potential beneficiaries are turned back out onto the street, more cynical than ever."

Bechtel said the programs, together with the Emergency Employment Act, which had been under a similar freeze since July 1, account for close to $40 million annual in manpower funds for Wisconsin.

Safety first

The deaths of two Wisconsin persons, killed in the past week while attempting to change tires on their cars on state highways, has brought a warning from Outagamie County Traffic Safety Coordinator Stanley Arnold, above, who advised motorists to take precautions while changing tires. He suggested setting out flares or large safety triangles with luminescent tape on the sides or having a passenger stand about 100 to 150 feet down the road to warn oncoming motorists. "Use your emergency flasher lights," he added. Changing tires in the vicinity of hills and curves presents the greatest hazard, Arnold explained, because the car is hidden from traffic. "For any situation," he said, "the best protection is to plan ahead and use common sense."

Funds eyed for couples' quarters at health center

Trustees of the Outagamie County Health Center next year may request funds from the county board to remodel a portion of the first floor of the Golden Age Home to permit elderly couples to continue living together

Eugene Speener, health center superintendent, and Sylvester Esler, head of the institution's trustees, met with the county board's agriculture, education and human resources committee Friday in their second of a series of meetings to familiarize the committee with the programs of the health center.

Speener said that when a couple wants to "the Golden Age Home they have to be separated because there are no apartment-type facilities available. The proposal would be to remodel the first floor to provide facilities for couples.

Esler, who formerly was chairman of the county board, agreed that this "is the only way to go." He recalled that members of the trustees and the board had viewed such facilities in Walworth

County when he was still on the county board, but that nothing came of recommendations made at that time.

County Executive Alvin Woehler suggested that revenue sharing funds might be a source to finance such remodeling, but asked Esler to have the trustees bring in a recommendation when they are ready to proceed.

Speener told the committee there are still many areas where the programs need improving, particularly in the alcoholism area and in services for adolescents. "It is so important that everything be one, coordinated program for all services," Speener said.

He conceded that such coordination could result in the loss of some individual identity by some service groups, but, he said, coordination will provide better service to the community.

Plagiarism on campus still causes concern

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin's crackdown on students who purchased term papers has caused a "chilling effect" on the use of the papers to fill course assignments, Madison Dean of Students Paul Ginsberg says.

Although a number of out-of-state term paper mills have advertised in local newspapers, his information shows "students either for reasons of ethics or apprehension didn't get involved in them," Ginsberg said.

Previously students purchased the papers and submitted them as their own work. Ginsberg reported that 162 students were failed because of the papers and 193 others got reduced grades.

The dean said many faculty members and students have raised questions about whether the UW should have considered the term paper order forms prima facie evidence of plagiarism.

"We feel it was a proper legal and ethical posture for us to take," he said.

Ginsberg said the term paper issue "has resulted in a far greater level of concern about academic dishonesty."

The university was given the names of students who purchased papers after the state Department of Agriculture subpoenaed the records of two local term paper businesses.

Ginsberg said talks with students involved showed most of them were juniors and seniors, and most were doing satisfactory or above average school work.

"So many perceived that they did not see a moral issue involved," Ginsberg said. "It's interesting for us to note how very rare it was for students to give an erroneous name on the order form to hide or disguise their involvement."

Scandinavia man to be arraigned on drug charge

WAUPACA — James D. Jenkins, 21, route 1, Scandinavia, will be arraigned Tuesday in Waupaca County Court Branch 1 on a charge of possessing and attempting to deliver a pound of hashish.

He pleaded innocent to the charge Friday during his preliminary hearing in County Court Branch 2 and was bound over to Branch 1.

Jenkins appeared before Judge Nathan Wiese with his court-appointed attorney Friday. Wiese found, after evidence had been presented by Assistant Dist. Atty. Terry Rebholz, investigator Robert Andraschko of the sheriff's department and a postal inspector, that a felonious act had been committed by the defendant.

Jenkins was arrested Dec. 12 at his home shortly after he had picked up a package at the Scandinavia post office addressed to "Steve Wilson." The brown paper package had been mailed from Amsterdam and according to testimony entered Friday, the U.S. Customs

Office in Chicago, which uses specially trained dogs to sniff out illegal drugs, took possession of the package.

The package was forwarded to a postal inspector in Wausau, who had the substance (contained in eight tubes of oil paint) tested. It was identified as hashish.

Customs and Postal Service agents from Green Bay and Wausau and an agent from Duluth waited to arrest the person claiming the package at the Scandinavia post office.

Allegedly, Jenkins called for the package and took it to his cottage just off Bestul Road, Town of Scandinavia. Four law enforcement officers called at the cottage and Jenkins produced the package. Since the arrest, the sheriff's department had the brown substance contained in the oil paint tubes chemically analyzed and it was identified as Delta-1-tetrahydrocannabinol.

Jenkins is free on the original $5,000 bond.

Teachers and politics

The endorsement of its own candidate for the high office of state superintendent of public instruction by the Wisconsin Education Association is without precedent in Wisconsin politics, but it has probably surprised comparatively few politically aware Wisconsin citizens, notwithstanding. There can be no reasonable objection to the involvement in political affairs by teachers in a time when every other special interest group in the state and the country is directly involved in campaigns and elections and, more particularly, in active lobbying of the representatives in government after they are elected.

Physicians do it. Carpenters and railroad conductors and others have long been involved in a corporate sense in supporting parties and candidates.

Wisconsin chiropractors lately have scored some notable triumphs, in spite of their numerical inferiority, because they learned the sophisticated ways of campaign money contributions and legislative lobbying. Dairy farmers of the country were heavily involved in congressional and presidential politics in recent elections. Special interest political organization, campaign financing, and hard lobbying is the order of the day. If there is any surprise about the involvement of the Wisconsin Education Association in political campaigns, it probably relates to the tardiness of its abandonment of organization neutrality.

What is disturbing about the WEA involvement, however, is the probability that it can elect its man, almost anonymous as he is with respect to the state at large, not through the active precinct involvement of the classroom teacher, but through the cumulative power of money that can be put together out of the small contributions of up to 45,000 dues-paying members.

Ernest Korpela, the chosen favorite of the WEA officers, is no doubt a decent and civilized man. But does he have the professional stature that Wisconsin is accustomed to seeking for the state superintendency? He was trained to be a teacher. He worked a few years as teacher and small town school administrator. But he left teaching for other occupations. He has served two terms in the state assembly, where he is now a "lame duck," in the jargon of the political trade, having lost a campaign to elevate himself to the senate.

Would he run now without the lure of the WEA campaign financing pledge? It is doubtful. Could he have made a credible or effective campaign on his own? It would almost surely have been impossible. Yet he will rank as the favorite for one of the most vital public offices in Wisconsin. The method and the unfortunate advantage of campaign money are worrisome here, along with the probability that other and better talents will be discouraged by them.

Fathers not all unpersons

The United States Supreme Court, by affirming district court decisions, has overturned a provision in the Social Security legislation. It bolsters other court rulings that the fathers of illegitimate children are not necessarily unpersons.

In the cases from Connecticut and Maryland, the fathers of illegitimate children had acknowledged the children. But when they died, Social Security payments were made only to their widows and their legitimate children. The district court held that this practice discriminated against acknowledged illegitimate children. It conceded that Congress may have intended the provision as an aid to the legitimate family unit but it found it unconstitutional.

In most of the cases to come to court concerning what are the rights of the fathers of illegitimate children, rather than the responsibilities, it has been the father who has brought the action. Specifically they have involved the "absolute" right of the mother alone to put up the child for adoption and the jurisdiction over illegitimate children in case of the death or incompetency of the mother.

However, in Social Security cases it seems obvious that a man who acknowledges the children as his would want to provide for them in case of his death. Since contributions to Social Security are not voluntary, the state must fulfill its responsibilities in helping him to do just that.

Scali in for Bush

Ambassador to the United Nations George Bush certainly must have political ambitions. Once Congressman from Texas, he was defeated in the Democratic resurgence of 1970 when he tried for the Senate. President Nixon then appointed him to the post at the United Nations but has just reassigned him as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Mr. Bush was hardly a world federalist enthusiast when he went to the U.N. He seemed to follow far better than did his predecessor Charles Yost what appears to be the President's attitude on the U.N. — that is pay lip service but no real support and when something has to be done, do it some other way. This may be the pragmatic view; it doesn't help the U.N. very much or its chances to work toward its charter responsibility of peace and justice in the world. But Bush did his work at the U.N. with determination and what seemed to observers to be a growing recognition of its worth. He pushed American points but with reason. While he didn't follow Yost's mistake of obviously not agreeing with President Nixon, he began to give more oomph to the U.S. positions with a realization that the U.N. was still good for something.

His successor, John Scali, has had considerable experience in foreign countries as an able reporter. He is not a party Republican but has been a special consultant on foreign affairs and communications since 1971. He should be a conscientious and well-spoken representative in the United Nations.

The suspicion remains that his appointment reflects two things about President Nixon. First, he does not consider the U.N. important enough to assign an experienced diplomat to the position — maybe he thinks it would be a waste of time. Second, he may be trying to balance what is definitely the Administration's displeasure and punitive attitude toward newsmen with the political appointment of a reporter.

As for Ambassador Bush — it would obviously be better for his political ambitions to campaign next time from the position of successful Republican national chairman than an ambassador to the U.N. — especially in Texas.

But it's happened before that virtual cast-offs sent there have emerged with idealism untarnished and even refurbished. Bush grew in the job. We hope the same for Scali.

One term might be enough for Lucey

MADISON — When Gov. Patrick Lucey held his last formal news conference several weeks ago he departed from his usual format with a prepared statement on a current topic and invited participants to submit such questions as might occur to them. One young man was curious about the governor's intentions about running for re-election, although the next gubernatorial election was then about 25 months distant.

Lucey responded that he did not run for the office for the pleasure of having the title. He sought the governorship because he had certain convictions about program and performance and his future career in state government will depend largely on his success in pressing those programs during his four year tenure, he went on, and the subject was dropped.

To the careful observer of state affairs, the reply was revealing instead of evasive, the conclusions of some listeners notwithstanding.

Lucey is the first four-year governor this state has had. The long year term was installed largely because Republicans who then ruled the state wanted it. Lucey had no connection with it. But he obviously believes that he may have the chance to demonstrate that the more effective executive office was the promised result of the change and that if he succeeds in his own mind he may not want to serve eight years.

He regards his record in the first half of his four year term and the record of the 1971 legislature with respect to his program as substantial. He is confident that the array of new propositions he is now preparing for the 1973 legislature will have a good chance. If he is right, it is quite possible that one term will be enough for him.

There are a number of factors involved in such surmises. They involve the psychology of politics and the dynamics of leadership. Governors also have private lives, concerns, and obligations. Often they are not easily accommodated to the demands of high public office.

Family life involved

Several times in this reporter's lifetime successful governors have been persuaded to run for third terms under the old two-year rule, and then regretted their third elections after the event. A politician's program is not inexhaustible. The governorship is not all fun. Often it is exhausting, in physical and other costs such as family relationships. The man who has submitted programs to two succeeding legislatures and succeeded to a fair degree sometimes finds that he has little more to say. Lucey now has a second "term" in that sense assured and may very well conclude if he has a reasonably successful legislative response next year, that he will prefer in 1974 to retire while he is ahead.

There may be auxiliary factors that can be cited with some plausibility. Lucey married

'later than most men, at 33. As a result, his children are young and his family life is inevitably affected by his public role. He is reasonably well-to-do, but he is not rich in contemporary definitions. He divorced himself from his business when he took the oath of office, and it is not hard to surmise that at his salary of $25,000 a year there is a deficit in the family accounts at the end of the year.

All these must be speculations, but a watchful listener recalls also that Lucey at 54 has had a richer experience in politics than almost any of his contemporaries, even if the tales of his boyish voice raised for Gov. Al Smith in 1928 are fond family exaggerations. Some governors ran for final terms against their instincts because of party pressures. They were persuaded they were indispensable men. Lucey's majority party has a stable crowded with eager men. There is no visible opportunity for graduation to a seat in the U. S. senate, which attracted LaFollette, Blaine, Kohler, Nelson, and others when they retired from the statehouse.

Lucey would enjoy the role of elder statesman after 1974 and as far as such events can now be foreseen, his devotion to the Kennedy family would put him into national politics again in 1976 and, possibly, in a national government role. As the governor is so fond of saying to friends, the United States at base is Democratic.

Top ten news stories of year

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The summit meeting in Peking which broke a 22-year stalemate in Sino-American relations has been voted the top news story of 1972 by the editors and news directors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and television stations.

For seven historic days, described by the President as "the week that changed the world," Richard Nixon and his party sojourned in Communist China. During that week the U.S. Chief Executive conferred with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En lai.

Second place on the list went to the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace as he campaigned for the presidency. The third spot was accorded to the bloody massacre that erupted during the Summer Olympics in Munich and left a death toll of 12 Israelis, five Arabs and one German policeman.

Others in the first 10 were President Nixon's re-election (4), Henry A. Kissinger and his mission to end the war (5), President Nixon's visit to Moscow (6), and the signing of the strategic arms limitation agreement (6), Sen. Thomas Eagleton and the Democratic vice presidential candidacy (7), the Vietnam war (8), Flooding that killed hundreds in West Virginia, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and seven other states (9) and decisions of the Supreme Court (10).

It marked the second straight year that Red China had placed No. 1. In 1971 the top story was the entry of the People's Republic into the world arena after more than two decades of isolation.

In 1972 the spotlight focussed once again on China as Nixon, his wife and entourage were welcomed to Peking. The climax came when the President raised his glass during an eight-course state dinner and declared that the day had arrived "for our two peoples to rise to the heights of greatness which can build a new and better world."

Premier Chou responded: "the gates to friendship have been opened."

There was stark drama in Laurel, Md. on May 15, when George Wallace, stumping in that state, responded to a greeting. Wallace turned, extended his hand toward 21-year-old Arthur Herman Bremer of Milwaukee. Bremer thrust a revolver toward Wallace and fired five times. The Governor was paralyzed from the waist down. Bremer was sentenced to 63 years in prison, a sentence later reduced by 10 years.

For 10 days the Munich Olympics had been called the "happy games." Then terror struck on Sept. 4 when Arab terrorists scaled the fence surrounding the Olympic Village and gunned down an Israeli wrestling coach and an Israeli weight lifter. Nine other Israelis were taken hostage and later all were killed in a shootout between the Arab terrorists and police.

The games continued, but the spirit wasn't the same.

Ordinance needed for sleigh bells

100 YEARS AGO
Crescent, Dec. 28, 1872.

Every day someone in our city (Appleton) is in danger of being run over by careless drivers. Especially this is true where no sleigh-bells are used; they receive no warning of the approach of sleighs whatever. There should be a fine and imprisonment for the negligent.

Our people should take extra caution against fires at this time of year, as the danger is very great. Some one should examine into the manner in which stove-pipes are run through wooden partitions.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Dec. 27, 1947.

New York City was buried under its greatest snowfall in its history that day. Top officials of all boroughs went into emergency session to plan measures to protect the health and welfare of its 8 million inhabitants. More than 1,400 pieces of equipment, manned by thousands of city employees, were in use throughout the night and early morning without making a dent in the storm that dumped a record 25.8 inches of snow on the metropolis.

Arthur Lasch, William Freiburger, Richard McDaniel and Tony Freeman were in charge of the New Year's Eve party being planned by the Learman Schaller Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at New London.

Miss Marilyn Grode was president and Miss Vera Fritz president-elect of the new Bettina Rho Girls Club, which was holding its first formal dance during the holiday season at Odd Fellows' Hall. In its first year, the club was sponsored by the Betty Rebekah Lodge.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Dec. 29, 1962.

New officers of the Appleton Shrine Club, Masonic organization, were Dr. K. M. Giese, president; Maynard Bursstein, Russell Luebben and R. W. Uehling, vice presidents; M. L. Horner III, secretary; and George Reynolds, treasurer. Verne Bushman, Green Bay, a divan officer of the Tripoli Temple of Wisconsin, installed the officers that week.

The Rio Theater building on Oneida Street was to be razed by its owners, the H. C. Prange Co. Built in 1929, the building was purchased by The Prange firm in 1959 to become one of store's annexes. Plans were to have the building down in early February.

Top winners among the 70 boys competing in the Waupaca Recreational Basketball tournament were James Dushek, Robert Engle, David Wendt, Donald Handrich, Dennis Riddle, John Holly, Mark Peterson and Ted Smith.

Why can't merchants help keep up avenue?

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I would like to offer the opinions of one taxpaying family in the City of Appleton regarding the proposed "stripping down" of College Avenue.

It was only five years ago that the city went to the enormous expense of hiring a designer, disrupting traffic, relaying utilities and rebuilding the downtown area so that Appletonians could be proud of it. Doesn't anyone remember what a run down eyesore it was prior to 1967?

It wasn't long ago either that the City of Appleton built the Lawrence Street Parking Ramp. Again they hired experienced engineers to insure efficient design, good traffic flow inside and a minimum of interference with street traffic. It had parking meters which seem to be convenient enough every where else in town. The ramp had scarcely opened when W. A. Close et al decided that a cashier system would be "better for the merchants" and the city had to remodel a perfectly good ramp, making a nightmare of traffic flow and pedestrian safety on Oneida Street to accommodate these proponents of good old free enterprise.

Since 1967 these same merchants who let College Avenue look so slummy prior to that year have apparently been satisfied to let it do so again. I used to like to shop early when the stores were opening and on many occasions I watched these people sweep the litter out of their stores into the planters.

So once in a while the Boy Scouts or some public spirited students would clean it up. Surely these merchants could start a fund to pay the wages of a crew of high school or college boys (who do need jobs) to pick up litter, water and fertilize the plants that have not died yet, and generally keep the avenue in the shape it was originally.

They could also repair the benches and signs as needed. If we pave the spaces around these remaining trees they will surely die also. Any reputable arboriculturist will tell you that the root systems of trees have to have a minimum area of exposed soil over them in order to survive. The planted areas were designed with this minimum area provided. Without the trees and planters we will soon return to the unattractive, treeless shadeless waste we had prior to 1967. Without the benches for the weary shopper to rest her legs and wait for a car or bus ride, and for children to sit briefly for a rest with parents in the sun, we will have absolutely no incentive to come downtown at all. I have found the much maligned business directories most helpful in locating small stores when I am not sure which block they are located in. I was unable to locate them in the jumble of little store fronts we have in some area of the avenue. If they are removed I probably won't bother looking for these establishments.

There are probably a couple of over-size planters which could well be scaled down and made more attractive but for goodness sake don't throw out the baby with the bathwater. The others and the benches should most certainly be retained. I don't mind walking around them.

Those great champions of free enterprise — the College Avenue merchants — having had the avenue improved to bring them business, should be willing and eager to share the cost of upkeep. They should not sweep out their stores into the planters. They must not be allowed to strip the avenue. If they do, I, and many others, will take my business out to the West College Avenue strip — so aptly named — where esthetics are totally ignored anyway and parking is free. (Sorry, Treasure Island planted trees and keeps them up!)

Art TV series born at UWO

OSHKOSH — University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh's Television Center, in conjunction with the Paine Art Center of Oshkosh, is producing a series of television shows on the arts which will be broadcast over WPNE-TV, Channel 38, at Green Bay.

The first in this series, "The Gift of Glass," will be shown over Channel 38 at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

The series, entitled "Harlequin's Umbrella," will deal with the fine arts and the performing arts. These programs also will be made available for possible broadcast by other Wisconsin stations.

Harris Liechti, director of TV services at UWO, said that initially these programs will be made in cooperation with the Paine Art Center. It is hoped eventually that programs may be done in cooperation with other art centers, museums and educational institutions.

Dependent on the obtaining of financial support, other programs will be done in cooperation with various departments on the UWO campus, Liechti added.

The inaugural program, "The Gift of Glass," will deal essentially with the exhibit of Victorian Glass recently held at the Paine Art Center. To give the program a broader appeal, this exhibit was placed in the context of glass-making throughout history, using slides and narrative sequence to add additional dimension to the program.

Victorian glass exhibited in the show was on loan from the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

Special guests for the initial program are Dr. Edward Noyes of the UW-Oshkosh history department, who is an expert on glass, and Ralph Bufano, director of the Paine Art Center and formerly with the Corning Glass Center at Corning, N. Y.

Dr. Noyes, who at one time worked in a glass factory, will demonstrate the use of several glassmaking tools, discussing the stages and various procedures in glassmaking. He also will comment on the Victorian glass.

Bufano will lead the discussion of the Victorian glass and will show several of the finest pieces from the exhibit.

Serving as host for the program will be Robert Bourguard of the radio-TV film section of the UWO speech department. The program was written, produced and directed by Liechti. Assisting in its preparation were Andrew Ruhlin of the UWO TV Center as designer, Robert Heise of the UWO speech department as narrator and John Bredezen of the UWO TV Center as director of engineering.

Slides and other material used in the show were obtained from the Paine Art Center, the Corning Glass Center, the Wisconsin State Historical Society and the UWO art department.

"The Gift of Glass" is the first color program produced at the UWO TV Center for state broadcasting.

By Jingo Twain float

The word is out — Mark Twain's indestructible hero and heroine Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher — will be seen in the persons of Johnny Whitaker and Jodie Foster riding the City of Alhambra float in the Pasadena Rose Parade on New Year's Day.

The float, with its young star attractions, promises to be one of the most attractive in the hundreds of beautiful floats on Pasadena streets Monday morning. The youngsters, of course, are stars of the forthcoming musical adaptation of "Tom Sawyer," which Jingo thinks is a neat promotion idea with coast-to-coast coverage. The mammoth float Jodie and Johnny will be riding will be a blooming recreation of the river scene in which Tom is shown with his dog (all flowers and mechanized) upon his raft dreamily floating down the Mississippi River. For those interested in statistics — 125,000 individual blossoms, including stock, carnations, chrysanthemums, plus bales and bales of shredded bark, thousands of floral seeds and white clover — will be applied all by hand to create this float over the present weekend.

"Tom Sawyer," you remember, is the movie made by The Reader's Digest Association in association with Arthur Jacob and Co. under the United Artists label. The whole idea is that moviegoers in general like family-type movies if they are good ones. The Group is out to prove it and "Tom Sawyer" is the first in what hopefully will be a successful series. Oscar-winning Richard M. and Robert B. Sherman have written script and tunes. The locale is in Twain country, authentic Missouri river town background. Supporting players include Celeste Holm, Warren Oates and Jeff East.

New technique

Ever hear of Duo-Vision? Jingo reads in Variety Magazine that producer-director Richard Bare has developed this exciting, new technique. What happens is that the audience sees two storylines projected simultaneously on the movie screen throughout the whole feature movie. It's not a split image of the old days. Not at all.

For instance, the MGM (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) film "Wicked, Wicked" shows the chaser and the chased — the protagonist and antagonist — on the screen at the same time. The audience knows what's going on from two sides of the same motion.

Two years in the making, Duo-Vision involves an active screen and a passive one — dialog from one side at a time while silent footage unreels on the other sides, explains Variety. At the moment, the movie is in the editing stage, but will be ready for most theaters equipped with wide angled screens soon.

It's a sort of New Year's present from the film industry and one that should attract movie fans and bring others back to the motion picture theaters.

Q: Even though he's dead, I hear there's a new Jimi Hendrix album coming out. Can you check it? — Henrietta and Linda, Memphis, Tenn.

A: Not only an album but a full-length documentary film on the life and music of the ill-fated R&B star will be released by Warner Brothers next spring. Unlike the "Rainbow Bridge" film, this movie will contain previously unreleased footage from Woodstock, Monterey, the Isle of Wight, Berkeley, Fillmore East and London's Marquee Club. Clips of interviews with Jimi, many of his friends and fellow musicians will also be inserted.

Q: Jimmy Stewart seems so shy and soft-spoken. But wasn't he a hero in World War II? — L. Rankin, Oakland.

A: He was, though he doesn't like to talk about it. Gen. James Stewart (Ret.) won the Distinguished Flying Cross for leading a raid on aircraft factories. Twenty U.S. planes were lost in the raid. As an 8th Air Force squadron commander, the then-Major Stewart led a squadron of B-24s on 11 missions over Germany.

Q: Whatever happened to the once-popular sportscaster Mel Allen? — John M. Morrison, Merritt Island, Fla.

A: Mel's doing swell. Living in Stamford, Conn., he owns a substantial piece of a Canada Dry distributing company. He's also mounting the lecture pulpit and recording a syndicated radio series with former New York Herald Tribune sports editor, Bob Cooke. The show's title, "Wake Up the Echoes," is taken from the second line of Notre Dame's football victory march.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson Tolerance to allergy developed by shots

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My allergist has determined from skin tests that I am allergic to trees. I am 44 and did not have any allergy problems until about three years ago. Neither my mother nor father is allergic. I have lived in Chicago all my life.

The doctor wants to give me desensitizing shots. Are they a good idea? Will they result in my developing a more serious allergy? My symptoms have not been severe but seem to be getting worse each year. — M.C.H.

Trees (various kinds) are known to cause allergies in enough people so that allergists include tests for trees among the 100-plus materials which are commonly used for tests.

Living in the city doesn't necessarily protect you. Trees grow in cities — and you don't need a forest to cause trouble. Just a few invisibly small pollen particles from whatever kind of tree or trees are involved can do the dirty work, once the allergy exists.

Allergy tends to follow a family pattern. If parents have such trouble, children are more likely to have some, too, although not necessarily the same kind of allergies. Your parents may have had minor allergies which neither you nor they pay much attention to.

Likewise there are strong indications that allergies are becoming more prevalent as the years pass.

The desensitizing shots are given with this purpose: If you are given very small amounts of allergens at intervals, your system gradually develops a certain amount of tolerance. It doesn't mean you get rid of the allergy totally — but you can tolerate small amounts without consequences.

They certainly will not "result in a more serious allergy." If I were told to have such shots, I certainly would do so. It depends on how much of a nuisance you have. Quite a number of allergists whom I know have allergies, and they keep themselves out of trouble by the use of desensitizing shots that suit their particular needs. Among them are hay fever from ragweed, itching and swelling from animal danders, dust and other items.

In any case, the first necessity is to find out what is causing your allergic reactions so the appropriate desensitizing agents can be used.

You, of course, already have found out what bothers you: Trees. Even in the city.

Don't expect the shots to work instantly. They won't. A succession of shots is needed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has a large lump in one testicle which has been diagnosed as a varicocele. It was quite small then but is now quite large. I have been trying to become pregnant for two years with no success. Could this be the reason? — Mrs. A.R.

Varicocele can be a factor in infertility. I suggest that your husband see a urologist, particularly since it is getting larger.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 43 and diabetic. Is there any benefit or harm in a woman using bust-developing cream containing hormones and bust developing exercises? — D. S.

Such creams won't enlarge the breasts, although there can be enough absorption of hormones to interfere with control of diabetes.

As for exercise, it can't increase the size of the breasts except to the extent that there may possibly be some enlargement of the chest muscles underlying the breasts. The difference, if any, would be very small indeed. The exercises might, however, improve your posture — and improved posture can result in an apparent, although not real, enhancement of the breasts.

What is angina pectoris? Is it dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about angina pectoris, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his helpful booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. (Copyright 1972)

Blindfold required for indoor game

BY CAPPY DICK

The problem for a player in today's game (which can be made at home) is to shake a bean through a hole in a cardboard box and do it in handkerchief to use as a blindfold.

Punch a lot of holes through all six sides of the box, but make only one of them big enough for a bean to pass through (figure one).

Place a dried navy bean in the box and close it. Blindfold a player and give him the box with instructions to manipulate it until he manages to get the bean through the hole (figure two).

Time the player with the second hand of a watch and write down the number of seconds or minutes he requires to get the bean out of the box.

When he has succeeded, remove the blindfold. Place the bean back in the box, blindfold the next player, hand him the box and start timing him.

After all players have had a chance, check the times and announce the name of the winner.

could only hover close to the ground because of the wet.

"They drug us up just like you see in the movies," he said.

Passengers said their was no warning.

Martin Siminiero, 22, of Long Island, one of the survivors, said there was no word from the pilot, no explosion and almost no warning before the plane hit.

"The plane was flying fine," Siminiero said. "We just went down slightly and then came back up. I thought nothing of it. The next thing I knew we hit."

The plane slammed into a marsh about eight miles north of the Tamiami Trail, a state highway that cuts across the Everglades from Miami to Florida's west coast.

Despite its nearness to the road, the wreckage was accessible only by helicopter, swamp buggies and shallow-draft airboats driven by airplane propellers.

In Washington, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the crash was the first fatal accident involving a Boeing 747, Douglas DC10 or an L1011, the new generation of jumbo jets.

Eastern has 10 of the L1011s, which cost $15 million each. The maiden flight of the three-engine craft was on Nov. 16, 1970, and Eastern put the planes into commercial service only last summer.

Flight 401 disappeared from the Miami airport's air-traffic control radar at 11:42 p.m. EST, the FAA's Don Byers said. Visibility was 10 miles, and there were only scattered light clouds at 2,000 feet.

A 10-member investigating team was dispatched to the scene within hours of the crash by the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington.

The pilot was Capt. Robert A. Loft, who had been flying for Eastern since Sept. 20, 1940. Of the airline's some 4,000 flight officers, he had seniority No. 50.

All of the 13 crew members were from Miami.

Judge declares state law on juveniles to be unconstitutional

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Wisconsin law permitting a juvenile over the age of 16 to be tried as an adult was declared unconstitutional Friday by Milwaukee County Judge Vel R. Phillips.

Court observers said other judges are not bound by her ruling because the law has survived a number of challenges in court recently.

However, Asst. Dist. Atty. Jon Peter Genrich said he intended to appeal the ruling to the state Supreme Court.

The judge said the law lacks standards and is so vague it fails to give juveniles constitutional due process of law.

The decision Friday came in the case of a 17-year old youth accused of robbing and beating a 33-year old woman in a parking lot.

Congress to get bill on hijacker execution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Congress will be asked to permit the execution of skyjackers and to create a federal force to police airports.

Rep. John M. Murphy, D.N.Y., in announcing his legislative proposal Friday, said it is "an attempt to stave off drastic action by the world's commercial pilots."

John J. O'Donnell, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, who joined Murphy at a news conference, endorsed the legislation. It "goes a long way toward solving the problems," O'Donnell said.

Murphy criticized the Nixon administration's antihijack plans, saying they put the burden of domestic airport protection on local authorities. Such an approach, he said, is "totally inadequate and doomed to prove ineffective."

The air hijacking problem, Murphy said, "is continuing to grow, particularly in scope and motivation—blackmail on a massive international scale, and political extortion have become common manifestations."

Under the Murphy proposal, hijackers could be executed or put in prison for a mandatory minimum 25 years. A $50-million-per-year air-transit

3 of J. I. Case charged with embezzlement

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Embezzlement of about $274,000 in J.I. Case Co. funds has been charged against three former company financial executives, Dist. Atty. Gerald Clickner said Friday.

Preliminary hearings have been set for 9 a.m. Jan. 29.

Charged and free on signature bonds of $10,000 each are Ralph D. Lemmons, former controller of the Case components division in Racine; James P. Bernacchi, former manager of financial planning for the company's tractor plant in Racine; and Bobby L. Scott, who was controller at the tractor plant.

The complaint alleged that the three men "beyond the scope of their authority caused to be issued about 13 J.I. Case Co. checks either to Space Associates or J and D Associates."

Lemmons, Scott and Bernacchi, the complaint alleged, were officers of the Space Associates and J and D Associates and drew the money from the corporations for their personal use.

The warrants said the alleged offenses occurred between March 24 and Nov. 2, 1972.

security force would be set up in the Federal Aviation Administration "to police the nation's airports against hijackers." There would be mandatory screening of all passengers and carry-on baggage by weapons-detection devices.

The proposal would authorize the President to suspend air service between the United States and any nation which harbors hijackers or refuses to return hijacked planes.

"Perhaps the most important sanction of my bill requires the President to institute a secondary boycott against any country that continues to do air business with an offending nation," Murphy said.

A bill giving juries the death penalty option in skyjacking cases and allowing a halt to U.S. air travel with nations which harbor such pirates died during the last Congress.

The Nixon administration later moved to curb skyjackings by tightened surveillance with electronic screening of passengers plus the posting of guards at loading areas—at the expense of airports and airlines.

Sewage financing plan asked in Neenah

NEENAH — The finance committee has directed Mayor Roman Hauser to draft a detailed financial plan outlining exactly how the city is going to handle the interim and long-term financing for the $24 million sewage plant expansion.

Meeting Friday, committee members asked Hauser to gather all the data and bring in recommendations on how the city should go about financing the plant until the anticipated federal funds start coming in.

In response to questioning from Ald. Michael Ellis, Hauser said he planned to recommend a bond issue for the financing to cover construction costs until the federal aid comes.

Ellis asked that the schedule of financing be tied into receipt of the federal aids. "What I'd like is a complete financial picture," he said.

On another issue Ellis also asked Hauser to call a summit meeting to "see what can be done in the downtown."

Pointing out that "any increase in the city's commercial tax base will help the residential areas by lowering its share of the tax" Ellis suggested "we call together representatives of the city, chamber of commerce, the downtown and the banking interests to explore what they see as the problems confronting the downtown."

Stressing that "this doesn't mean a return to redevelopment but just to explore what should be done to enhance the downtown," he said, "we should tie it all together—including the Commercial Street area on the island—to see what improvements can be made."

However, he emphasized that anything that might be done "will be on a private basis. I'm not advocating the use of public funds," he said.

"But we can't afford to do nothing," he said

NEENAH — The streets and public works committee is offering a compromise on proposed special assessments for two street construction projects completed this year.

The compromise charge $5.62 per front foot for residential property is an attempt to bring a little more money back to city coffers than was called for in the public hearings.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, has readily admitted that he made a mistake in computing the special assessment for Smith-Torrey-Columbian, Tullar Road and Cecil Street. In applying the city's new policy, he established the assessments at half of what they should have been.

The net result of Bryan's mistake would have cost the city $13,968 in lost special assessment revenue. But if the city plans to recover any of the money, new public hearings will have to be held.

The first of these came a week ago and the council set a precedent by holding the charge backs to the original hearing figure and it's doubtful that aldermen will risk breaking the precedent.

The $5.62 per foot charge being suggested by the committee is $2.03 more for the Smith-Torrey-Columbian link in the one-way system; 96 cents more for W. Cecil Street, and $1.52 more for Tullar Road.

It was Alds. Donald Otto and Robert Troyer who suggested the compromise and selected $5.62 per front foot because it was the actual cost of the Tullar Road project.

However, Ald. Donald Steber, who voted not to change the assessment on the council floor when the debate came up on Wilson Street, held firm and voted against the compromise. "I think it should stay at the level the hearing called for," Steber said.

In other action the committee:

— Voted to advertise for new equipment estimated to cost about $111,000.

— Voted to buy a new ladder truck for $4,500.

— Recommended four decorative lights for Riford Road.

Firemen contract to council

NEENAH — A pair of labor agreements—with the distaff members of the police department, and fire fighters — are being recommended to the city council for approval.

Both contracts fall within the 5.5 per cent guidelines of the federal wage price freeze, according to J. J. Kraus director of administration.

Both contracts involved only wages with no change in fringe benefits.

The pact with the fire fighters calls for an average across-the-board pay hike of $51 a month for a 5.47 per cent increase, Kraus told the finance committee Friday.

The percentage computation was based on an average total compensation of $931 per man for the men in the bargaining group.

For the six members of the police clerical staff, the average for the steno dispatchers is $31 based on $570 per month and $33 a month for the clerk stenographers, based on $602 per month.

In addition to the pay settlement with the fire fighters, Kraus referred to a memo attached to the contract outlining what will be done if the Pay Board changes its 5.5 per cent ceiling or gives an affirmative ruling on a request for exceptions to the guidelines which will be filed as soon as the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) officially rules on a pension request.

The fire fighters and city agreed that the city would pay all pension contributions, after the IRS said the payment would not count against the 5.5 per cent. However, in the middle of negotiations the guidelines were changed leaving both sides hanging on what to do.

At stake is 3.25 per cent up to $7,800 and 3.75 per cent over that figure as the contribution to the Wisconsin Retirement Fund, which is in lieu of Social Security.

As a result of the change, the pension payments were left out of the contract until final word was received from IRS and then the Pay Board.

Now, to compensate for any decision which might come in 1973, the memo indicates that the pension payments (not to exceed the percentages) would be assumed by the city if and when any decision comes.

Mrs. Sitter won't run for council seat

OSHKOSH — Mrs. Valeria Sitter, first woman to be elected to this city's common council, announced Friday she will not seek re-election to a third term in April.

She will retain her seat on the Winnebago County Board of Supervisors, however.

Mrs. Sitter said Friday that the two positions have left her little time for anything else, especially since reorganization of the county board reduced the number of its committees.

"It's been a hectic and grueling year for me," she declared, "and I can't foresee that 1973 will be any different if I run and am re-elected to the city council."

Peace group wants Lucey to collect funds

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Madison Area Peace Action Coalition called on Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's office Thursday to begin collecting donations for medical aid in Indochina.

In a resolution adopted at an "emergency meeting" of the 25-member coalition, the group said Lucey's office should collect donations in the same way it is collecting them for aid to Nicaragua, where an earthquake struck the city of Managua last week.

The resolution specified the governor's office should be made "a channel for the people of Wisconsin to make donations to the medical aid for Indochina program."

Battery stolen

MENASHA — A battery was removed from a car owned by Gary P. Bartelme, 357 Winnebago Ave., late Friday afternoon, according to police report. The battery, valued at $30, was taken from the car while it was parked at Twin City Bowl.

New Menasha police pact calls for $40 pay increase

MENASHA — A $40-per-month increase in pay, better pay for police science credits and a work schedule change are all part of a contract settlement between policemen and the city here.

The one-year contract, negotiated after only four meetings between negotiators for the city and Local 34, Menasha Professional Policemen's Association, also increases the city's cost for health insurance for policemen.

There are 25 members of Local 34.

Only captains, investigators and the chief do not belong to the unit.

Menasha Atty. David Krizesnesky, negotiating for Local 34 for the first time, and chief city negotiator Sumner Parker, finance committee chairman, both seemed pleased with the agreement.

It calls for a five per cent increase in pay: $40-per-month, across-the-board. Three police science credits will now earn an officer a $5-per-month increase in pay; it took four under the old contract.

Parker said the range of police credits earned by officers now on the force ranges from zero to 40.

The work schedule change will prevent police from having to work six straight days in the future, according to one of the patrolmen involved in the negotiating sessions. This is something Local 34 had asked for at the start of the sessions.

The change will come about through a lengthening of the work day to eight hours and 20 minutes.

Police work on five-days-on, three-days-off, five-days-on, two-days-off work schedule. Formerly, that schedule meant that each patrolman ended up with a "wild day" each month. The longer work day is aimed at preventing that.

The new schedule will not mean a change in the total number of hours worked each year by patrolmen, Parker said.

An increase in health insurance premiums — from $64.50 per family to $71.67 per family — will be picked up by the city.

The settlement was one of the quickest reached between Local 34 and the city in recent years.

The only remaining employee group to settle on a 1973 contract is Local 695, Menasha Professional Firefighters Assn. They walked out of a session with the city in early December, and have not returned to the table since.

Agreements with city hall and street department workers have already been reached.

Church no place for canine

KIMBERLY — If you turn a dog loose in a church, you can't expect it to be too reverent, but the animal that roamed through the Presbyterian Church here Friday morning was downright sacrilegious.

Earl Friday afternoon, the inside of the church was discovered littered with broken Christmas ornaments and hymnals and church papers. The Christmas tree was pulled down and the hard covers of the hymnals were torn and bitten off. Police Chief Donald Schmeck said the whole inside was a mess.

The dog wasn't there when Schmeck looked at the church at 12:15 p.m., but it didn't take too long to find out who let the dog in. Impressed with the seriousness of vandalizing a church, youngsters on the sidewalks nearby quickly fingered one of their companions.

An 11-year-old boy had found the dog running loose and released it into the church Thursday night and let the dog out Friday morning.

The boy was turned over to his parents, who promised to make restitution.

Funds eyed for couples' quarters at health center

Trustees of the Outagamie County Health Center next year may request funds from the county board to remodel a portion of the first floor of the Golden Age Home to permit elderly couples to continue living together.

Eugene Speener, health center superintendent, and Sylvester Esler, head of the institution's trustees, met with the county board's agriculture, education and human resources committee Friday in their second of a series of meetings to familiarize the committee with the programs of the health center.

Speener noted that when a couple wants to enter the Golden Age Home they have to be separated because there are no apartment-type facilities available. The proposal would be to remodel the first floor to provide facilities for couples.

Esler, who formerly was chairman of the county board, agreed that this "is the only way to go." He recalled that members of the trustees and the board had viewed such facilities in Walworth County when he was still on the county board, but that nothing came of recommendations made at that time.

County Executive Alvin Woehler suggested that revenue sharing funds might be a source to finance such remodeling, but asked Esler to have the trustees bring in a recommendation when they are ready to proceed.

Speener told the committee there are still many areas where the programs need improving, particularly in the alcoholism area and in services for adolescents. "It is so important that everything be one, coordinated program for all services," Speener said.

He conceded that such coordination could result in the loss of some individual identity by some service groups, but, he said, coordination will provide better service to the community.

Eight already enter city spring election

Six incumbent alderman, a school board member and a challenger to one of the alderman were early entrants Friday in Appleton's spring election races.

They received nomination papers from the office of City Clerk Elden Broehm before the office closed for the New Year's holiday weekend. Friday was the first day papers became available, but they may not be circulated until Jan. 1.

Mrs. Marion J. (Barbara) Hoffman, 43, 627 E. Brewster St., a housewife long active in local government and civic affairs, is seeking nomination to oppose Ald. Orville Strutz, 62, a 10-year city council veteran who also took out papers to seek reelection.

Others receiving papers include:

—Ald. Orval Polzin Jr. (3rd), 44, ending his fourth year on the council.

—Ald. Alvin Tews (5th), 63, senior alderman on the present council, serving his 20th year.

Safety first

The deaths of two Wisconsin persons, killed in the past week while attempting to change tires on their cars on state highways, has brought a warning from Outagamie County Traffic Safety Coordinator Stanley Arnold, above, who advised motorists to take precautions while changing tires. He suggested setting out flares or large safety triangles with luminescent tape on the sides or having a passenger stand about 100 to 150 feet down the road to warn oncoming motorists. "Use your emergency flasher lights," he added. Changing tires in the vicinity of hills and curves presents the greatest hazard, Arnold explained, because the car is hidden from traffic. "For any situation," he said, "the best protection is to plan ahead and use common sense."

First quake relief flights start Tuesday

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Relief flights from Wisconsin to earthquake-stricken Managua, Nicaragua, will probably begin Tuesday, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey announced Friday.

Lucey's office said it had clearance from the National Guard to fly military cargo planes from Milwaukee and Madison to the devastated city.

Oscar Mayer and Co., headquartered in Madison, donated 50,000 pounds of meat through the Red Cross and 18,000 pounds through the Wisconsin Relief Effort, the Governor's aides said. They valued the meat at more than $40,000.

The three-man survey team from Wisconsin headed by Robert Dunn, Lucey's executive assistant, reported to the governor by shortwave radio that meat and corn meal are goods most critically needed by earthquake victims.

The governor's office was working to arrange donations of corn meal from Wisconsin millers.

Dan Weinstein, a Middleton amateur radio operator who has been handling communications with the Wisconsin team in Managua, said Dunn gauged the food supply available in the country at only two days worth.

Meanwhile, donations pouring into Lucey's office topped the $28,000 mark, with more than $15,000 received Friday, volunteer workers opening the mail said.

Lucey earlier in the week asked churches and synagogues across the state to take special collections over the weekend for earthquake survivors in Nicaragua, which is Wisconsin's sister state in the Partners in the Americas Program.

Nixon farm cuts called a 'step back' by Lucey

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey has told President Nixon his decision to cut funds from the Rural Environmental Assistance Program and Water Bank Program is a "giant step backward" in efforts to improve the environment.

"I urge you, Mr. President, to re-evaluate the priorities of your administration," Lucey said in a telegram.

"With environmental maintenance and improvement of such importance to our people's lives, I urge that you not abandon the REAP and WBP commitments at this crucial time," the Democratic governor said.

The Department of Agriculture announced funding has been suspended for the two programs.

REAP provided federal cost-sharing money for a number of farm conservation programs. WBP was designed to preserve wetlands.

Wisconsin expected to get $3.5 million from REAP next year and $47,000 from WBP for farmers in Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Dodge counties.

Lucey said half of Wisconsin's family farms have implemented environmental improvement practices in the last five years under the REAP program.

"Your abrupt termination of these important programs means a giant step backward in state and national efforts to improve the environment," the governor said.

Lucey cited a Lake Mendota watershed project which the governor said is considered a national model in controlling agricultural runoff of nutrients and animal wastes.

Farmers in the Madison area were using cost-sharing money from REAP to attempt to keep runoff from entering the lake, he said.

Man guilty in burglaries

One of two Kimberly men charged with five counts of burglary, including the Dec. 10 theft of a safe from the Combined Locks Police Department, was found guilty on those five counts and one count of marijuana possession when he appeared Friday before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Mark Hagens, 20, 622 E. First St., Kimberly, pleaded no contest to all the charges and Schaefer scheduled sentencing for Jan. 26.

Hagens was arrested with Randal Fjellerad, 18, 238 S. Lincoln St., Kimberly, after an early morning break-in last Saturday at the A & W Drive-In Restaurant, 427 S. Washington St., Combined Locks.

In addition to the police station and restaurant burglaries, Hagens and Fjellerad were charged with three other Kimberly burglaries, including the theft of a tape player and about $20 in change from Max's Tap on Aug. 7; the theft of about $90 in an Aug. 26 break-in at the Little Alibi; and the theft of $70 in a Sept. 21 burglary at Kimberly Hardware Inc.

The marijuana reportedly was found in Hagens' possession after the Combined Locks burglary last Saturday.

Fjellerad is scheduled to appear Wednesday before Schaefer for a preliminary hearing on the five burglary charges. A third Kimberly man, Mark Marheine, 19, 324 N. Sidney St., is charged in connection with the police station burglary. He also will appear Wednesday for a preliminary hearing before Schaefer.

Police said Hagens and Fjellerad told them they broke into the drive-in to steal money to pay for an apartment they were looking for. They said they entered the police station to get back money Hagens had posted as bond for a speeding violation.

They said they waited for inclement weather to steal the 300 pound safe and removed it by way of a fire escape. Also taken was a .38-caliber revolver, later recovered at the home of one of their friends in Kimberly. The safe was found Dec. 11 on Askeaton Church Road in New Denmark.

Scandinavia man to be arraigned

WAUPACA — James D. Jenkins, 21, route 1, Scandinavia, will be arraigned Tuesday in Waupaca County Court Branch 1 on a charge of possessing and attempting to deliver a pound of hashish.

He pleaded innocent to the charge Friday during his preliminary hearing in County Court Branch 2 and was bound over to Branch 1.

Jenkins appeared before Judge Nathan Wiese with his court-appointed attorney Friday. Wiese found, after evidence had been presented by Assistant Dist. Atty. Terry Rehholz, investigator Robert Andraschko, of the sheriff's department and a postal inspector, that a felonious act had been committed by the defendant.

Jenkins was arrested Dec. 12 at his home shortly after he had picked up a package at the Scandinavia post office addressed to "Steve Wilson." The brown paper package had been mailed from Amsterdam and according to testimony entered Friday, the U.S. Customs Office in Chicago, which uses specially trained dogs to sniff out illegal drugs, took possession of the package.

The package was forwarded to a postal inspector in Wausau, who had the substance (contained in eight tubes of oil paint) tested. It was identified as hashish.

Customs and Postal Service agents from Green Bay and Wausau and an agent from Duluth waited to arrest the person claiming the package at the Scandinavia post office.

Allegedly, Jenkins called for the package and took it to his cottage just off Bestul Road, Town of Scandinavia. Four law enforcement officers called at the cottage and Jenkins produced the package. Since the arrest, the sheriff's department had the brown substance contained in the oil paint tubes chemically analyzed and it was identified as Delta-1-tetrahydrocannabinol.
